Hello there! What began as an experiment in translating traditional Character Generation roll-tables to card format has ended its development as what's before you.

Instead of rolls and table-referencing determining your entire character for you, "Draw 6 Discard 1" restricts your options and forces you to improvise: to try something you'd never even considered; to break away from your tropes; and, I hope, to have fun doing it.

If you have any feedback, it's very welcome.
